A Day at the Safari Park

Last weekend, Maya visited a safari park with her family. From the safety of their car, they watched a herd of elephants walking slowly toward a watering hole. Their guide explained that elephants are herbivores, which means they only eat plants. Later, Maya spotted a lion resting lazily under a tree, waiting for the cooler evening hours to hunt. The guide said lions are predators that mostly hunt at dawn and dusk. Before leaving, Maya's favorite moment was watching a family of giraffes stretch their long necks to eat leaves from the tallest trees.

1. Where did Maya visit last weekend?

2. What were the elephants walking toward?

3. What does "herbivore" mean, according to the guide?

4. When does the guide say lions mostly hunt?

5. What does the word "predator" mean in the story?

- ☐ An animal that eats only plants
- ☐ An animal that hunts other animals
- ☐ An animal that lives in water
